Antioch joins the new Solid Waste Agency

by KATIE KUEHNER
Lakeland Newspapers

The Antioch Board of Trustees has agreed to allow the village to join the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County, which involves a $5,000 membership fee.

So far, the village is one of about a dozen communities who have committed to the agency. According to Asst. County Adm. Bill Barron, at least 20 communities in the county need to join before the solid waste plan can be implemented.

"This agency is a model for the state and possibly for the nation," Trustee Marilyn Shineflug said. She added that this is the only county in Illinois that has devised an intergovernmental organization to handle solid wastes.

"As members, we will be able to fully participate in organizing the agency. We'll all be able to deal with the economical, political and environmental problems that could surround waste disposal."

Shineflug said the agency will discuss recycling, composting, landfills, and possibly an incinerator. "We'll be able to discuss individual technologies before we'll have to commit." Once members agree to the types of disposal, then they would have to commit to delivering their "waste streams."

Shineflug added that the solid waste plan should significantly curb the amount of waste that is going into landfills.

The intial fee to join the agency ranges from $5,000 to $25,000, depending on the size of the community. Antioch's size dictated a $7,500 fee.

Barron said that he believes the duty of the local officials regarding the agency is "an awesome responsibility. "This is an intergovernmental agency because dealing (effectively and environmentally) with waste is beyond the scope of individual communities."

"If the plan is implemented as it was conceived, this will be the county's largest public works responsibility," Barron said.

He added that he has already received international requests for the solid waste plan.

Doing a family 'thing'

Greg and Brenda Povilaitis make selecting Christmas tree a family project. Even baby Daniel in his mother's arms was on hand for traditional tree buying expedition. More honors for Bleke before June retirement

Arthur Bleke, principal of Antioch Community High School since 1973, has been nominated for inclusion in "Who's Who in American Education" for 1992-93.

Bleke, who has been included in "Who's Who in the Midwest" since 1985, has also been recognized as the Illinois Secondary School Principal of the Year in the 1987-88 school year.

He has announced his retirement from the high school as of June 30, 1991. He has worked in education for 40 years, the last 25 in Antioch.

Bleke has worked in various schools since 1951, including Buckley High School, Paxton High School, Luther North High School, Elmhurst College, and Antioch High School. He has also been a coach in basketball, football, and baseball, as well as an official in all three areas.

Additionally, Bleke has authored articles in national and state publications and has been a speaker for national and state conventions and workshops. He has been active in the regional, state, and national principals organizations, serving as Regional Director in 1980-81 and 1983-84. He has also served on the Principal Advisory Committee to the State Superintendent.

A member of the Antioch Rotary Club, Bleke is also a member of the Gurnee American Legion and President of the Lindenhurst Sanitary Dist. for which he has served 22 years.

"Tentatively, I've had an offer from a school architect to be a consultant," Bleke said, discussing his "retirement" plans. "I would be a liason between the firm and school boards of education. But this is

Mapping of wetlands in farm areas urged

The Swampbuster provision of the 1985 Farm Bill requires that the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) notify producers participating in USDA programs whether or not wetlands are present in their farm fields. To assist the SCS District Conservationist in making wetland determinations the recently completed SCS Wetland Inventory will be utilized.

The Lake County Wetland Inventory is a comprehensive and updated mapping of existing wetland resources. Areas identified on the inventory can be expected to have, under natural conditions, the three characteristics of a wetland: hydric soils, hydrophytic vegetation and wetland hydrology. Both urban and agricultural areas were inventoried. It is anticipated that this inventory is more comprehensive and up to date than the widely recognized National Wetlands Inventory (NWI) published by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in 1980.

The determination process will begin shortly. Each producer that has a current Highly Erodible Land and Wetland Certification on file with ASCS, will receive a revised Highly Erodible Land and Wetland Conservation Determination. The determination will be accompanied by an aerial photograph showing the location and type of any areas considered to be wetlands and highly erodible land designations for all tracts of land they currently farm. Wetlands that will be shown on the photographs include artificial wetlands, farmed wetlands and typical wetlands.

Once the determinations have been completed and mailed to those producers currently participating in USDA programs, a public meeting will be held to explain the methodology used to prepare the inventory, the determination process and appeal rights. Wetland determinations are considered to be final 45 days after the producer is notified of the determination. Prior to the expiration of the 45 day period the person may request in writing a reconsideration, which is the first step to appeal the determination.

Producers are strongly encouraged to document the presence of subsurface field tiles. By doing so, activities associated with maintenance of existing system is allowed in many cases. In addition, there will be permanent records that will assist with planning of urban development. In many cases, tile lines are interrupted by development activities and are not properly rerouted or repaired; resulting in serious problems that could have been avoided.

Any questions concerning the SCS Wetland Inventory, wetland determinations and the appeals process should be directed to the SCS/SWCD office, located in the Farm Bureau complex in Grayslake.

Christmas Tree Directory

One Christmas tree may not be enough

Perhaps the most dominant and essential decoration of the holiday is the Christmas tree.

Years ago, families relied on the forest to provide a tree. Today, most Christmas trees are commercially grown on tree farms, which are called plantations.

At the 80-acre Chiodo Farms in Independence Twp., Joe Chiodo has been spending much of his time of late unloading the flatbed trucks that bring freshly cut evergreen trees from Pennsylvania and Ohio.

"It used to be that people just put up one tree," Chido said. "But now so many people put up more than one tree—one for the kid's room, one for the foyer and one for the living room."

Finely shaped trees just don't grow that way. They must be pruned, shaped, watered and sprayed, Chido said. Some sprays, like the environmentally safe sprays he uses, require more frequent applications than do other brands.

Alan Dambach of Lake Forest Gardens in Fombell said the Scotch pine, the most popular tree in western Pennsylvania, requires seven to nine years of care before it is ready for market.

People are now buying and decorating their Christmas trees earlier than they used to.

"It used to be that people would put it up the day before Christmas," said Larry Kuhns, a Penn State professor of horticulture. "If you are going to bring it in early, you have to get a tree that has good needle retention.

"If you are going to bring it in the week of Christmas, then you can get just about anything."

Once the tree is home, a fresh cut should be made in the base of the trunk and the tree placed in water mixed with a preservative.

The tree will drink a large amount of water in the first few days. The water level should not dip below the cut; otherwise, a seal will form and prevent the tree from absorbing water.

A tree with a high moisture content is about as flammable as a damp leaf, Dambach said.

Antioch Chamber endorses program

by KATIE KUEHNER
Lakeland Newspapers

The Antioch Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the Millburn Community School Dist. 34 Honors Credit Card Program and is urging participation from its members.

According to Cheryl Kucera, the program's coordinator, the credit cards are an additional incentive for junior high students to earn higher grades.

"Almost 60% of our students were on the A-B honor roll for the first quarter, and when they heard we would be starting this program in January, they were really excited," Kucera said.

The program is structured so that at the end of the grading quarter, students who have maintained an "A" or "B" average for the quarter receive a laminated "credit" card with their picture on it and a special punch indicating the quarter issued.

Supporting Antioch merchants will receive a listing of the names of those who received cards. "A" average students will be issued gold cards, which will make them eligible for a certain discount or free gift. "B" average students will receive blue cards and will be eligible for a slightly lessor discount or free gift.

"We've already received over ten committments on our first dsy out," Kucera said of the Parent-Teacher Organization's soliciation of Antioch's businesses.

"We'll help with anything that is feasible to encourage the kids to study," Chamber Pres. Jack Thelen said. "We also hope the community joins with the chamber and the school in support of this."

"We want to stress, however, that this is in addition to, and not a substitute for parental encouragement to study. We hope parents will want to instill the love of learning for learning's sake. The honor card program is meant to additionally reward the students."

The chamber board said that merchants' donations can take one of several forms. They could donate percentage discounts, free gifts of food or product, if the nature of their business lends itself to this form of support.

However, the board continued, if a merchants' business is of a different nature, i.e., a bank or health care provider, he or she could give a donation to help with the start-up costs of the program.

A member could also fashion a reward individually.

The chamber board said the merchants will benefit from increased advertising via the school and through local newspapers and other media. Additionally, the students and parents will become more aware of the services and products that area merchants can provide.

"This can be a good program for everyone involved," organizers said.

Kucera said the students are really looking forward to it.

Thelen said letters were sent to all of the chamber members urging their participation. "If any other school would like to organize a similar program, the chamber would look into endorsing it."

Holiday display here

by KATIE KUEHNER
Lakeland Newspapers

"Traditions of Christmas" is featured this holiday season at the Lakes Region Historical Museum, 817 Main St., Antioch.

The exhibit, highlighting past traditions that date back to even before Christianity, opened Nov. 17 and runs through the first week of January.

Displayed are gifts for children, women and men, Christmas trees of several origins, plus stories about how the modern Santa Claus came to be.

"We have rag dolls dating to the turn-of-the century, plus picture games that move," said Roberta Knirsch, the historical society's director. "For the gentlemen, we have the shirts with the bottoned-on-collars from the 1920s and Victorian shirts for the ladies."

The exhibit features four trees that each have a different history.

"'The Paradise Tree' is from the mystery plays of the Middle Ages," Knirsch said. "The plays were usually about Adam and Eve and the tree was the only scenery they had. The only things on the tree were apples, cherries and holy wafers. This was the forerunner of the Christmas tree."

Knirsch also explained the beginning of the home decorating tradition. "Druid priests -- Celtic priests that pre-date Christian times -- would decorate the houses during the winter solstice to insure that spring would eventually come again.

"Additionally, gifts were presented at the turn of the new year in hopes that spring would return. Winters were pretty dismal back then."

Knirsch said that the Christians took this tradition, plus the idea of the Paradise Tree and the practice of decorating homes and used them for their newly developed holidays to add emphasis to the Christian events. But (the traditions) are really pagan.

The second tree replicates the original German Christmas tree. "The Germans changed the holy wafers to cookies and added roses, which was the symbol of the Virgin Mary," Knirsch said. "On our tree, we have white, yellow and red roses."

The exhibit also displays a Victorian tree from England. "Queen Victoria's husband, Prince Albert from Germany brought over the tree from his native country and elaborated the decorations. This went over very big in England and the decorations became pretty intricate."

"It's interesting to note that Americans were introduced to the Christmas tree before the English," Knirsch said. "Germans, who were hired as mercenary soldiers by the British for the Revolutionary War, decorated trees while they were in the colonies. The colonists quickly adopted the tradition."

Another tree displayed is one that would have been seen during pioneer times. "It's decorated with home-made or gathered ornaments. On our tree, we have woven paper red hearts of Scandinavian motif."

The last tree that is displayed is the "modern" Christmas tree. "This tree originated when most people stopped making the decorations and started buying them from mail-order catalogs and later, from the stores. Also, when the electric lights were invented, strings of lights gradually replaced candles."

Knirsch said the museum also has pictures and documents telling the stories of St. Nicholas, Sinter Klass, and Santa Claus.

"St. Nicholas was a fourth-century bishop from Myra. He would drop bags of gold down the chimney of poor girl's homes so that their families could afford dowries. He was also the patron saint of pawn-brokers! The bags of gold turned into golden balls which he held in his hands.

"Sinter Klass came from Dutch. When the Dutch emigrated to America, he became Santa Claus. This is the first time the Christmas personification appeared -- well, heavy. The change first appeared in the poem 'Twas the night before Christmas'. He's described as a merry old elf with a belly that when he laughed, shook like a bowl full of jelly."

Admission to the Lakes Region Historical Museum is free. For more information, call the museum on Saturdays, from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m., at (708) 395-7337.

Television debut for little Katie Turner

by LIZ SCHMEHL
(708)395-5380

Special Day

Bozo Circus is on the air and so was little three-year old Katie Turner. On Thursday, Nov. 15, Katie, along with her mom, Mary, brother, Andy, and friends, Sharon, Amanda and Ashley Rzysko, visited Bozo Circus in Chicago. The frosting on the cake for the Turner and Rzysko families was the thrill of having little Katie chosen to play "The Grand Prize Game." Her big brother, Andy, was very proud of her and even more so after she won his favorite game as the prize. Katie is a real dainty and petite little three-year old and Mary said even Bozo remarked that she wasn't much bigger than the Bozo buckets themselves. For those of you who know little Katie, the show airs on Dec. 11, which will give you the first-hand opportunity to see how well she did and how cute she looked while doing it!

I Suggest Mittens

Now I have heard of a "Green Thumb" when used in reference to people with the knack of gardening. I've even heard of a "Black and Blue Thumb" when someone bangs that hand digit with a hammer. However, I have never heard of the "Red Raw Thumb" - until now. It seems there is a fine young lady amongst us whose thumb turns "red and raw" while shopping. This could be a sign from above to cut back on your shopping or possibly a green light to shop like crazy till the swelling goes down. I won't reveal the identity of this 22-year-old shopper. However, as you are in and about town doing your Christmas shopping start observing the thumbs of those around you - maybe you will be standing next to the "Red-Thumbed" shopper!

Letters to Santa

Antioch area children are encouraged to write letters to Santa. Simply write a letter to Santa, include your name and return address, put it in an envelope addressed to Santa Claus at the North Pole and no postage stamp is necessary. The post office will deliver the letters to Santa and Santa will try to answer all letters that reach him in time for Christmas!

Breakfast and Crafts

Don't forget to visit the Grass Lake School P.T.O. Breakfast with Santa and Arts and Crafts Show on Sunday, Dec. 9. It will be held in the school gym from 9 a.m. till 1 p.m. The kitchen crew promises a tasty pancake breakfast and Pam Cardis says Santa will be on hand to visit with the little ones. There are over fifteen arts and crafters scheduled to display their wares and other surprise events will be taking place throughout the day. Circle Dec. 9 on your calendars to enjoy a good breakfast, visit with Santa, and get the rest of your Christmas shopping done.

Don't Rush Him!

I recently had a conversation with a young mother who was trying to wean her twenty-month-old son from the bottle. She didn't really want to do this, but was feeling outside pressures from family and friends who were suggesting that he was too old to be drinking a bottle. My heart went out to this loving young mother who desperately wanted to do the right thing. I told her to follow her own feelings concerning the right or wrong time to wean her young son from his treasured bottle. I said if he were my baby, I'd let "him" decide when to give it up. I assured her that when he went out on his first date he would not ask his mother to pack his "bankie and ba ba"!

Happy Anniversary

I'd like to wish Ray and Marie Brausam a Happy Belated wedding anniversary. They celebrated their special day on Wednesday, Nov. 21.

Thanksgiving Feast

Miss Marie of Camp Crayon is one of those rare people who is filled with energy, enthusiasm, and neat ideas. She has established a tradition at Camp Crayon of having the little ones participate in the preparation of a Thanksgiving Feast. When she shared this idea with Miss Debi, Miss Joanne, and Miss Liz, we secretly thought she must be "crazy." We simply could not envision the prospect of approximately 25 little pre-schoolers preparing popcorn, pumpkin pie, and corn break muffins - not only once, but to repeat this task for all three classes. However, she kept herself focused and on course and a feast we had. It proved to be a fantastic, memorable, and enjoyable special event. The boys made their very own Indian head bands, as they were to role play those original American Indians and the girls wore white Pilgrim hats and performed the tasks of the Pilgrim ladies. When the day arrived the three of us were secretly contemplating a difficult time at Camp Crayon, but the opposite was true. First the boys put on their headbands and the girls their bonnets. Then Miss Marie gave them a beautiful history of the first Thanksgiving celebration in America, after which each child expressed what they were personally thankful for. One of my favorites was the little one who was grateful for her curly hair. The preparation of the feast began with the Pilgrim girls preparing and baking the pumpkin pie and corn break muffins and the Indian boys preparing the corn (popcorn that is). Then all helped set up the tabled for the feast and voilá - a memorable moment. The cooperation and enthusiasm of all the children was living proof that they truly enjoyed their participation in this mini mock feast. In the end Miss Debi, Miss Joanne, and Miss Liz were complimenting Miss Marie on the great idea and specialness of the day!

Volunteers Needed

If you have some spare time on your hands and enjoy doing things with young people, why not consider being a 4-H volunteer? Whether you have a lot of time to spare or only a few hours, 4-H has a place for you. 4-H is looking for adults who are willing to give of their time and knowledge in order to help a young person develop to his or her greatest potential. A 4-H project leader is a very important part of the 4-H program. As a 4-H project leader you will receive all the help and guidance you need to be successful in this role. Being a project is self rewarding as you gain satisfaction in helping others increase self-worth by expanding their knowledge and cultivating a variety of talents. Call (708) 223-8629 for further information about a project leader.

German diplomat sees bright trading future

by BILL SCHROEDER
Lakeland Newspapers

A country the size of Montana is the centerpiece of a historic experiment of the 12 nation-European Community, a single market that will be comparable to the United States in size, population and economic vitality.

That's the picture of modern Germany---unified Germany---painted by Karl Georg-Schon, deputy counsel general in Chicago who is a temporary North Shore resident while serving his country in the Federal Republic's second largest consulate in the U.S., The German consulate in Chicago.

Schon, who views the international political and economic scene through thick-lensed glasses and from behind a rather scruffy beard, is closing in on 100 talks before civic and business groups, telling the story of what's going on in his homeland.

In near perfect English and possessing a lively sense of humor, the career foreign service aide offered a surprisingly concise reason how the Cold War ended so abruptly.

"Communist domination broke down. After 45 years Eastern European nations recognized that communism was a total economic failure," declared Schon, who resides in Winnetka with his wife and two children.

Eastern bloc nations possess state-of-the-art industrial technology---1940's style, Schon remarked wryly as he addressed members of the Fox Lake Rotary Club, his second Lake County talk in recent weeks. "I'm afraid the solution to most of Eastern Europe's manufacturing problems is a bulldozer," the chain-smoking diplomat added bluntly.

West Germany is prepared to spend over a trillion dollars and nearly a decade to bring East Germany "into line." Leaders of his country are looking to the private sector to provide the massive investment to modernize East Germany, Schon reported, including U.S. investment. East Germany is in economic turmoil with massive unemployment being part of the rebuilding.

"That's the bad news," Schon stated. "The good news is Eastern Germany is a booming consumer's market." In East Germany, Schon said only 17 percent of the homes have telephones; 30 percent have color television. VCR's are unknown.

The situation is ripe, according to Schon, for American business to step in and fill the needs of East German's anxious to catch up with the modern world. "The U.S. can make an automatic profit due to the trade deficit," Schon declared.

Schon asked a surprising question. Was the Cold War so bad? From the German point of view, the answer was no because the Cold War provided political and military stability. "We knew who the good guys and bad guys were. The Cold War provided 45 years of peace, the longest peace in this history of Europe."

"The challenge now is for the industrial world to replace a rather simple stucture(U.S. vs. Soviet Russia) with continued peace and stability," Schon pointed out.

Schon said the building blocks for continued peace and economic prosperity are creation of the European Common Market, continuation of NATO and success of the new Conference on Security and Cooperation of Europe(CSCE).

Touching on history and politics, Schon said the U.S. learned a lesson from World War I. That was to maintain a presence in Europe after winning World War II. Schon made another startling statement, characterizing the Cold War as "World War III."

In case Americans think they have it tough, Schon pointed out that Europeans pay $3.80 to $5 per gallon of gasoline to drive their autos which have been made extremely fuel efficient in recent years.

"If you had followed the same path after the oil crisis' of 1974 and 1980, the U.S. wouldn't be worried about Middle East oil," Schon remarked in this blunt style.

Court upholds fees in landfill suit

On Monday Lake County State's Atty. Michael J. Waller announced a court ruling which signals a turning point in the nearly three-year-old dispute between area landfill operators and the county.

The landfill operators have sought to challenge a county-wide surcharge on solid waste disposal. The court dismissed nine of 10 counts in the class action lawsuit which has been pending since February of 1988.

The class action, led by ARF Landfill Inc., challenges the constitutionality of the county ordinance establishing the surcharge. The surcharge is paid by landfill operators to the county, and is assessed based on the amount of solid waste disposed of in each landfill on a quarterly basis. The proceeds of the surcharge, which have been ear-marked by the county for use in a county-wide landfill inspection program, are being held in escrow pending the final outcome of the case. To date more than $2 1/2 million have been paid into the escrow fund.

The order, entered Tuesday by Circuit Judge Charles F. Scott, ruled that the first nine counts of the complaint failed to establish that the county ordinance was unconstitutional. The Plaintiff's were given leave to re-file their tenth count in order to add more detailed allegations. This tenth count challenges the constitutionality of the fee schedule which ARF claims favors smaller landfills at the expense of larger competitors.

According to Asst. State's Atty. Mitchell Hoffman, smaller landfills pay less under the fee schedule because they are less costly to monitor and inspect than larger landfills.

ARF has until Dec. 11 to re-file its remaining count.

Fighting gang crime

At the risk of being accused of being over reactive, Round Lake Beach police are organizing their own gang unit to be patterned after the Waukegan Police Dept. gang unit. Similar gang units also are being organized by police in Mundelein, Libertyville and Vernon Hills. There even is talk of forming a network of police gang units.

Is a good bit of Lake County suddenly becoming overrun by juvenile gangs?- Not at all. What's happening is that more and more police departments in the county are running into juvenile criminal activity that fits inner-city gang M.O.---guns, graffiti, clothes, jargon and so forth.

This doesn't mean that our town and neighboring communities already have been engulfed in "gangism" or are about to be infested. What it means is that crime patterns are changing like everything else is changing. If formation of a police dept. gang unit is part of the changing scene, then sobeit.

Public officials, particularly educators, are reluctant to admit that urban crime in the form of gang activity is manifesting itself in a suburban area. Combatting gang crime, however, is too complicated and too serious to be distracted by finger pointing. Sad as it appears, the gangs are coming out from the city---like everyone else.

New traffic solutions

Well traveled, arterial highways are ticketed for a new role by the Chicago Area Transportation Study(CATS) as alternatives to clogged expressways.

CATS is going to develop a system of "strategic regional arterials" (SRA) to supplement the overworked expressway system. The SRA system will be composed of 1,340 miles of arterial roads in northeastern Illinois. The SRA system was developed from a list of candidate roads. SRAs are about three miles apart in dense areas, five miles in suburban areas and eight miles in more rural areas. Rte. 59 in west Lake County is an example of a suburban SRA. Rte. 173 is an example of a rural SRA. Western Ave. in Chicago is an urban SRA route.

Where roadway expansion may not be possible, urban SRA improvements include additional left-turn lanes at intersections; suburban SRA improvements will be typified by construction of additional lanes and installation of traffic signals. In rural areas, SRA designation will result in right-of-way preservation and restriction of access in favor of through traffic movement.

Routes currently being studied in the first phase of SRAs are: Ontario and Ohio streets; Michigan Ave.; Lake Cook Rd.; Willow/Palatine Rd.; Randall Rd./Rte. 31; 95th and 87th streets, U.S. Rte. 30, Rtes. 64 and 59, and Milwaukee Ave.

Once a consultant finishes his work, the public will be invited to provide input. Public hearings for the first phase of SRAs are expected to begin in mid-to-late 1991.

Over the years, we've come to look upon CATS as sort of a "trailer breaker" for Illinois Dept. of Transportation(IDOT) land acquisition projects for new highway construction. In a welcome change, CATS appears to be engaging in some much needed original research. For once, it appears a highway study group is looking for transportation answers that don't involve the wholesale plunder of open space.

Maybe there are ways after all of solving traffic problems other than laying out more tracks of concrete and asphalt.

Edgar bracing for new role as 'education guv'

by BILL SCHROEDER

If he becomes known as the "Education Governor" that will be all right with governor-elect Jim Edgar who went out on a limb in a bruising campaign to "protect" an income tax surcharge in the name of education.

Like Mike Ditka taking the wind instead of the ball, Edgar emerged a winner. Who can argue with victory? The way Edgar talks now, saving $350 million for education was worth the gamble.

Addressing the 97th annual meeting of the Illinois Manufacturers' Assn., Edgar spelled out his commitment bluntly. "We have no choice. The future of Illinois will be determined in the classroom."

Edgar said the price Illinois pays for education will determine our standard of living and our quality of life. Strong words.

IMA members liked what they heard. They supported Edgar heavily in the fall election and the business organization is committed to forging a partnership with Illinois schools to improve education. As far as the IMA is concerned, Gov.-Elect Edgar and education go together.

It takes a little reading between the lines to figure out what direction the new governor is going to take to improve education. More money isn't the answer. "I'm committed to holding the line on taxes for the next four years," Edgar declared. In the same breath, he said that "funding without reform won't do the job." OK. That seems to indicate some overhauling of the system. Edgar said his goal will be to prepare every kindergarten pupil to learn by 1996. More pre-school training. More accountability. More efficiency. But not more taxes.

Arthur R. Gottschalk, IMA president, wasn't exactly complimentary of the Illinois school system. "There is no system in place to produce the employes, managers and entrepreneurs we need," Gottschalk declared in his introductory remarks. The theme of the IMA meeting was that the manufacturers stand ready to join the battle to improve Illinois education.

If Edgar is able to do what he says with help of organizations like the IMA, the next four years will be exciting---and productive. So parents, students and teachers, get ready for more homework, tougher courses, longer school days and possibily a longer school year. It's about time!

WE'RE STUCK---Too bad more voters don't have the memory of Martin Waitzman of Buffalo Grove. He is bemoaning the election of Democrat Pat Quinn as treasurer. So are we. Martin remembers that Pat Quinn gave us single member Legislative districts "to save millions of dollars." It sure didn't work out that way. Quinn advocated more regulation of powerful insurance and banking interests. That didn't work, either. Quinn was fired as revenue director of Chicago by the late Mayor Harold Washington, who said, "It was the worst appointment I ever made." Martin said Quinn as acquired dubious fame founded on poor performance, bad judgment, and"an incredible inability to function in a position of responsibility." Yes, but Quinn founded the Coalition for Political Honesty. How can he lose with that one? By the way, did anyone else notice that the voters didn't change any of the parties for state offices, just faces?

WINTER WORD---News director Dan Keeney at WKRS sends along word that Operation Iceberg is getting ready for business. That's where the station reports closings due to severe weather. As a community service the station reports closings. Dan says it's best to call before 5 a.m., either 336-8844 or 336-7900. You'll need to say the code word to get on the air. Sorry, we can't relay the code. Wouldn't be fair.

Living with composting

Editor:

One has to wonder what the breezes of next spring and summer will bring our way when composting sites start up in April? Will we be forced yet again to endure the noxious smells associated with these sites?

Many people in Lake County are concerned with the problems facing our landfills. Now it seems we have a new concern, how do we live with large scale composting! The odors generated by these sites are far reaching and grossly offensive!

We should encourage our state and county officials to make responsible and informed decisions on environmental issues. Perhaps in their haste to find a solution to the landfill problems, our legislators did not realize the unfortunate consequences these new composting laws would produce. We don't want our officials scrambling for ideas and methods to save one part of our environment only to have it adversely effect another!

I can't help but feel that while we may need these sites, they should not be in operation until the problems generated by large scale composting can be better understood and controlled. Grass clippings are the major cause of the odors coming from compost sites. By composting only leaves and branches we could do away with this problem. We can help ourselves and our environment by leaving our grass clippings where they belong—on our lawns!

Negative impact of Rte. 53

Editor:

Grayslake's environment committee is toying with the notion of restoring the wetland at the beginning of the Avon-Fremont Drainage Dist. on Peterson Rd. I think this is a marvelous idea.

Rte. 53 would have a negative impact on wildlife habitat as well as the wetland itself. I wouldn't care to see a wetland restored as a detention pond for a highway. Rte. 53 would add more stormwater than the ditch can handle. Runoff from current development is a potential flooding hazard.

Rte. 53 is a tool for vested interests and politicians who serve them for more development. We need our existing roads updated, not a new highway to bring more traffic gridlock to our already congested roads.

Tax increase avoided

Editor:

The people of Antioch were wise to vote no to a park district that would have been a hefty tax increase.

On top of that, someone came up with another tax to cleaning up certain lakes. That's fine, but why should residents who do not live near or have any use of the lakes have a property tax increase?

Antioch Parks and Recreation is headed by a person who lives in Lindenhurst. For some reason, she chose not to live in the town that pays her salary. We may have a new $32 million high school because Lindenhurst and Lake Villa have a large increase in pupils. We have a tax assessor who double-dips as a school superintendent, and a village administrator who seldom is in the village hall.

People are becoming more aware of what's going on. Remember this at election time.

Battle not yet won

Editor:

A major battle has been won through the joint efforts of the Barrington communities against Alan Pesman's huge Moorings Development in Fox River Valley Gardens. The full Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) Board voted 11-8 against the transfer of land out of the Barrington Facilities Planning Area (FPA) to the Island Lake FPA.

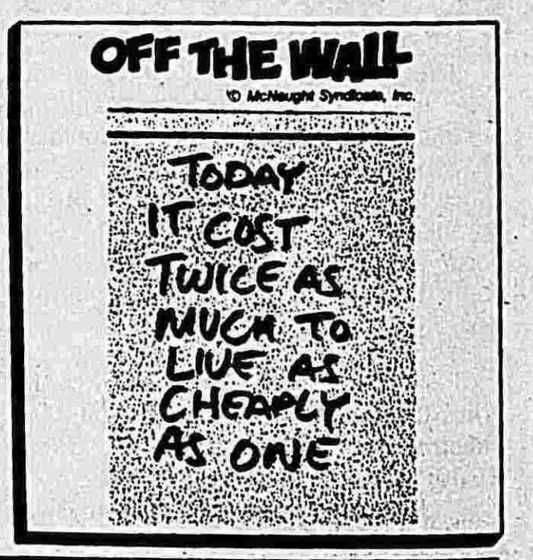

Don Klein, director of Barrington Area Council of Governments (BACOG), lobbied long and hard on behalf of the Barrington communities to convince the full NIPC board that this huge, primarily commercial development is inappropriate with the rural character of the area.

The North Barrington Area Assn. (NBAA) salutes the joint efforts of the BACOG communities in their war against the Moorings Development. While there are many other civic and homeowner groups involved, NBAA particularly recognizes the diligent efforts of Barrington, Tower Lakes, North Barrington and the

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

DEPKE BUYS LUNCH—Robert Depke is happy to be back in the saddle as County Board chairman. After a weekend of political maneuvering he was elected on the first ballot of the new board's first meeting on Dec. 3. It's the same job he held from 1969 to 1971 when he served on the board previously.

Not only was Depke elected on the first ballot, the vote was unanimous. This is almost unheard of in the long history of electing County Board chairmen. This is unlike 1987 when it took more than 26 hours of voting to elect Norman Geary of Grayslake as chairman.

Depke felt good about this week's election. So good, in fact, he treated everyone to the traditional chairman's luncheon at the Midlane Country Club. The posh location is Depke's favorite for his election time shindigs. Following him to lunch were more than 50 persons, including most of the County Board.

MISSING FROM ACTION—Conspicuous by his absence at the Dec. 3 board meeting was Norman Geary, the immediate past chairman. Customarily the chairman passes the gavel to the new chairman.

But not Geary. No love is lost between him and Depke. Both think the other is a political flake (or fluke).

Geary didn't show because his long tenure as a County Board member ended Dec. 3. Other no shows were such board luminaries as Bruce Hansen of Lake Zurich, John Reindl of Mundelein, Sam Payne of Zion and F.T. "Mike" Graham of Libertyville. All were defeated for reelection.

MOVING UP—Robert Neal, the ex-chairman of the Lake County Republican Party, has moved up in more ways than one.

With the election and seating of the new Lake County Board on Dec. 3 his seat moved from the last row to the front. He arbitrarily took a seat in the last row two years ago to protest assigned seating between two Democrats—Audrey Nixon and Sam Payne—in the third row.

At his first meeting Neal made so many motions, comments and noise someone thought him to be the new floor chairman.

No, someone said, that's just Neal feeling his renewed political oats.

oooooooooooooooooooooooo

SHE VOTES, TOO—According to the latest newsletter of the League of Women Voters of the Libertyville Mundelein Area, there is a new member.

She is none other than Betty Ann Moore, chairman of the Lake County Democratic Party. A resident of rural Libertyville, Moore says she has been a member of the league for 30 years.

She transferred to the Libertyville-Mundelein group when moving from Lake Bluff more than one year ago. "I guess the club is just getting around to updating its records," she said.

NEVER SAY DIE—Saying he has the time and the talent, former Libertyville Twp. supervisor and County Board member F.T. "Mike" Graham is talking about running for Libertyville trustee. Three openings exist on the spring ballot.

Graham was singed two years ago when he and Trustee Grant Keehn were investigated for allegedly offering a county job to another trustee, Jerry Aguirre. Keehn and Aguirre resigned from the village board. Graham lost two back-to back elections. All were exonerated.

As yet, Graham is yet to take out petitions. Seven others have done so, including Keehn.

Among the would-be politicos is Duane Laska. He has been trying for years to get local political recognition, but keeps getting ignored. No wonder. He never returns phone calls, which is a prerequisite for someone in public life. He is hides behind a telephone operator at work and his wife as an answering machine at home.

JUST HIDING—Another Libertyville politician in hiding is Carol Calabresa. She represents the County Board in Dist. 5.

Her blue and white business card lists two phone numbers—one at the courthouse in Waukegan, the other at home.

Until the Calabresa's got an answering machine, the kids answered. Sometimes they took messages, often not.

Now, the excuse is that the answering machine malfunctions. For those who want to try the number is (708) 362-3992.

So how can Calabresa be reached? Call the County Board at (708) 360-6336 and hope she picks up her messages.

oooooooooooooooooooooooo

BREAFAST WITH BALEN—For those with the time and inclination, a breakfast brunch is being served on Sunday, Dec. 9, at the Meadows 21 restaurant, 1760 N. Milwaukee Ave., Libertyville, from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Sponsor is the Lake County Democratic Party. This is what is being called a candidate's appreciation affair. Honored will be all Democratic candidates on the November election ballot.

VIP guests receiving special recognition will be two retiring County Board members; John Balen of Waukegan with 22 years and Sam Payne of Zion with 18.

For $15 tickets call party headquarters at (708) 816-8303.

ALIVE AND WELL—The John Birch Society is alive and well.

Some members were at a Libertyville village board meeting late last month to protest a 25 percent hike in the village tax rate. The crowd sat on the floor, leaned against the wall and spilled into the hallway.

Outside a business-size card showed up on parked cars. It read:

"Do you think that government is spending too much, taxing too much and intruding too far in your life?

"We agree—and we're doing something about it."

The opposite side gave the national organization's Appleton, WI address.

Oh, what happened at the meeting? Despite the crowd and the comments, the board voted to hike taxes, anyhow.

courageous support of Lake Barrington, who picked up much of the cost.

We must not rest yet. Still another battle line will be drawn. The NIPC board must present its recommendations to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA). Mr. Pesman will be lobbying long and hard to influence this outcome. Working together, the many voices of the Barrington communities can be heard. The NBAA urges every citizen to write their elected state representatives to insist that they pressure the IEPA to oppose the Moorings Development.

Shift school costs

Editor:

It is unfortunate that the school districts have to spend so much time and effort to get out votes on bond issues. It would be nicer if we didn't have to hire fund raisers but could concentrate on educators. It would be nicer if we wouldn't have the agonizing choice between a decent education for out children and higher property taxes. It would be nicer if some poorer school districts wouldn't have to get by on $8,500 less per student than their richer counterparts. It would be nicer if one school district didn't have to scavenge desks from the dump thrown away by a wealthier district. There is a chance for it to be nicer!

Forty-seven school districts including Chicago, Antioch and Lake Villa have banded together in a law suit to remove some of the inequities in the States aid to education. The suit points out that the school districts with the highest spending per student have lower tax rates, on average, than the districts which have the least to spend on their students. Unfortunately Dist. 46 decided not to participate in the suit. We certainly are not in the lower tax rate bracket.

If you agree that all the children in the state are entitled equal access to education regardless of where they happen to live there is something you can do about it. You can let your local school board know that you would like them to work together with other school boards. Let them know that together they can shift the cost of education from an inequitable real estate tax to the general revenue. Together they have power, alone you have grief. Give the political job of funding to the politicians and let our school administrators get back to the job of education our children.

Question of ethics

Editor:

During the last election, charges from Robert Churchill complaining of negative campaigning were numerous. Negative describes many of the races. Few would argue that the Dist. 61 race was the most pervasively negative in Lake County. The character assassination of John Matijevich attempted by Tom Clement found even fellow Republicans critical. Based on comments by Churchill which lavishly praised the Clement campaign, it was quite apparent that this vile conduct was encouraged, if not engineered, by Lake County Party Chairman Churchill.

Churchill had motivation to seek revenge on John Matijevich. A house resolution (HR2000) was introduced by Matijevich calling for an investigation into the IDOT land purchase scam. Other investigations were also called fo by various members of the Lake County board including many Republicans for insider dealing. Assorted newspaper accounts carried these stories. To date no calls for investigation have resulted in action by the proper authorities. Neither has there been official announcement exonerating Churchill.

Churchill is an attorney as well as a legislator. Attorneys are held to an ethical standard of conduct independent of the political arena. This standard is enforced by the ARDC, a state supreme court agency. The complaint filed against Churchill came after the other calls for investigation had failed to materialize in determining whether wrong doing had occurred.

The ARDC action is a question of legality, not politics. The election outcome in no way effects the complaint of investigation it calls for. This complaint was based on extensive documentation made available through the freedom of information act. The precedent set by the censure of former Chicago Alderman Edward Vrdolyak is the foundation of the ARDC complaint against Churchill.

The question of ethics in politics is of great concern to many voters. The current "Keating Five" senate hearings illustrates the need for questioning the ethics of public servants at all levels of government. Legislators who happen also to be lawyers can expect to be held to an even higher standard. How high a standard is the very question my complaint seeks to have answered.

Dr. Steven G. Ayre distinguished looking professional, is doing research in his laboratory. He is enthusiastic about sharing his work on insulin potentiation therapy (IPT).

Doctor researches lifesaving applications for an old drug

by MARY CATHERINE RHEDIN

Cancer is a frightening disease. Despite the energy and funds which have been expended on research, there still appears to be no true "cure" for cancer. In the area of breast cancer, even the mammogram which can detect cancer in its earliest stages is still a stressful test to undergo psychologically because should the results confirm cancer, the cure is still radical. Soon, perhaps, the entire arena of cancer treatment can take on a more positive note.

University of Health Sciences at the Chicago Medical School in North Chicago is the facility where Dr. Steven G. Ayre does his research. He is a distinguished looking professional is starched blue lab coat who at forty-something is extremely excited about his research. He is most enthusiastic about sharing his work on insulin potentiation therapy (IPT), which has shown success in the treatment of breast cancer.

Dr. Ayre, a 1971 graduate of the Univ. of Ottawa Medical School has been involved with Family Practice since 1972 with his father, Dr. William Burton Ayre. His father in collaboration with his uncle Dr. James Ernest Ayre was responsible for developing the PAP test. In fact, the popsicle stick like instrument used in the procedure is called the "Ayre spatula."

Dr. Ayre became interested in insulin potentiation therapy in the mid 1970's when he became familiar with its use in Mexico. The use of insulin in the treatment of certain maladies was developed in Mexico during the 1930's by a Dr. Donato Perez Garcia, Sr. It was practiced by this pioneering physician at his Mexico City clinic for many years until his death in 1971, at which point his son Dr. Donato Perez Garcia y Bellon who had been working with his father since 1955, continued the work.

In 1926, insulin was a new and exciting medical discovery. Dr. Perez was particularly interested in its use in the management of selected cases of non-diabetic malnutrition. Seizing on the possibilities for his own problem here, Dr. Perez proceeded to undertake the treatment of his condition by administering small doses of the hormone to himself by intravenous injection directly before each of his meals. After several weeks, he was completely relieved of all his gastric problems and additionally, his body weight increased to that of normal levels. Even after he discontinued the use of insulin he remained in good health.

From this experience, Dr Perez concluded that insulin in some way had improved the absorption of the food he had eaten. He also concluded that insulin had caused an enhancement of transmembrane transport, caused the cells to become more permeable, and changed them in a positive way. He hoped that perhaps he could show that other substance such as drugs could be more effective when given concurrently with insulin. He reasoned that if this were true that lower doses of drugs could be effective when administered with insulin. His experimental work with animals showed that insulin caused the crucial blood-brain barrier to be breached.

In 1947 he developed the first successful protocol for treating a case of cancer with the therapy. It was because Dr. Perez could provide no sound scientific basis for his result that this therapy found little acceptance. It was not that Dr. Perez did not try to communicate his ideas, he wrote voluminously to his colleagues. But it was difficult to establish a sound scientific basis for his therapy during a time when medical technology was not sophisticated enough to provide the necessary science.

Dr. Ayre first heard of this work in the fall of 1975, and spent the month of November of that year working with Dr. Perez at his clinic in Mexico City. He was very impressed with the results of the work that he saw produced by the therapy, though the work was completely empirical and without any recognized scientific basis. As science is the only legitimate language for communicating about medical discoveries, developing a sound scientific basis for the therapy has always been the focus for his work with insulin potentiation therapy or IPT as he calls it. However, since insulin is the most intensively studied molecule in the history of biochemistry, as the years passed, he came across the work of a growing number of researchers who seemed to be looking at non-diabetic uses for insulin. By 1985, he had compiled a significant amount of scientific evidence supportive of the therapy, and had worked this into a credible explanation for it. The material was submitted and accepted for publication in June of 1986.

For many years now, Dr. Ayre has been laying the groundwork for FDS approval of IPT. The steps that must be followed to gain FDS approval are first basic scientific research that involves animal and tissue culture experimentation.

Aware of the fact that the scientific validation of any medical therapy is essential to FDA approval, Dr. Ayre established the Medical Renaissance Foundation. The Primary goal of MRF is to proceed with the scientific validation in this country of a form of medical therapy developed abroad and employed there with great success for over 50 years.

It is with great sadness that Dr. Ayre talks of a patient of his who just underwent a mastectomy as a radical cure for breast cancer. He points out that the current treatment of breast cancer involves surgical removal of the breast, followed by chemotherapy, radiation, and hormonal therapy.

Dr. Ayre hopes that his work with the Medical Renaissance Foundation will change the status quo. The effects of radical mastectomy as part of the cure of breast cancer weigh heavily on the patient in the areas of cosmetic defects, infertility, and problems of psychological nature.

IPT Footwork

Dr. Ayre perceives IPT as a subject of medical/scientific interest. He feels it should be brought to the attention of the medical community first and in the appropriate fashion. Well aware of the steps required for the conduct of ethical medical research in this country, Dr. Ayre, within the Medical Renaissance Foundation worked as follows:

- set up regional headquarters for following the progress of various programs of scientific research.
- conduct live animal and tissue culture experimentation at recognized academic institutions
- human clinical trails would be written up and submitted for approval to the FDA.
- results of all these studies would be submitted for publication on an on-going basis in the peer-reviewed scientific medical literature.
- once completed, data would be submitted to the FDA. Review off this by the FDS would allow for certain regulatory changes to be affected, which would in turn allow for the legal and ethical practice off IPT in the United States. Dr. Ayre hopes to have IPT blessed for use within a two year period for the treatment of breast cancer.

Dr. Ayre points out that the unique features of this medical discovery are:

- low cost outpatient treatments.
- wide variety of diseases treatable.
- uses currently approved drugs available in all hospital pharmacies.
- avoidance of disfiguring surgery, with significant savings on high-tech in-patient hospital services.

Lifesaving

Mastectomy is not required with IPT. Dr. Garcia wrote in the European Journal of Cancer of a 32 year old woman who found a lump in her right breast in November 1988. A subsequent mammogram and biopsy confirmed the cancer. After eight weeks of IPT, the lump was no longer palpable. A mammogram at three months showed no signs of cancer. Insulin should not be considered to be the curative but the catalyst in all such instances. The presence of the insulin allows the drugs involved in the chemotherapy to successfully penetrate the cancer cells. The insulin permeabilizes cancer cell membranes to anticancer drugs. This allows for a higher and thus more effective inracellular concentration of these cellular agents. This can be accomplished using a lower total dose of medication thus reducing the many dose-related side effects of these drugs. As with any therapeutic practice, there have been failures with it, and far advanced cases predominate in these. Insulin potentiation therapy is not a miracle; it is simply medicine-and it may prove to be very good medicine.

Through his teaching appointment in the Dept. of Family Medicine at The Chicago Medical School, Dr. Ayre managed to interest members of that institution's Dept. of Pharmacology and Molecular Biology in his work with IPT. With financial support and invaluable collaboration of one of the pharmacologists, Dr. David Mosnain, he undertook an animal study to investigate the hypothesis that insulin could influence the trans blood/brain passage of the AIDS drug AZT in the rat brain. Over the summer of 1988, and with the assistance of a very small staff, he managed to prove that insulin can modify the blood/brain barrier and allow AZT better penetration into the substance of the brain. He wrote up the data and presented his findings to conferences such as the V International Conference on AIDS in Montreal in June, 1989.

Coincident with his efforts to publicize IPT via these scientific meetings, he submitted data to the Food and Drug Admin. On Dec. 5, 1988, he received his Investigational New Drug Number (IND) from them, granting him license to proceed with human clinical trails using insulin in conjunction with AZT.

The American populace has much fear concerning certain diseases which they believe once diagnosed are certain, eventual death. IPT would finally free the patient population from the pressure of concerns about life-threatening diseases. Dr. Ayre's philosophy of medicine entails people getting on with life and emphasizing other things apart from the prevalent preoccupation with health care. In summation, he asks "What could possibly be more valuable for our society than this?

Variable annuity offers tax free diversification

by ALAN NADOLNA

The only objections we have encountered with deferred annuities are their lack of investment alternatives and the inability to make additional deposits with them.

Therefore, people who are building a nest egg for retirement should seriously consider buying variable annuities. These insurance company products let you participate in the investment markets in a highly tax-advantaged way. Here is how:

This Way to Wealth

Tax break: You don't pay current tax on the income your investment earns. Tax isn't due until you begin to receive payments from the annuity, typically after you retire. So, your investment accumulates on a tax-deferred basis.

Because the income is tax-deferred, the investment return from a variable annuity will be approximately 30 percent higher than the same investments would produce if you made them outside of the annuity contract.

Who should do this?

Prime candidates: Working couples who are already making the maximum contributions to tax-advantaged retirement plans can benefit the most from variable annuities.

In return for the money you invest, you get an annuity contract that pays you an income of a set number of years, or for life, starting when you reach a certain age such as 60. In the meantime, your money is invested by the insurance company in the types of investments you select.

Variable annuities are called "variable" for two reasons. First, you can invest your money in a variety of accounts, you pick the investment. Second, you can pay for the annuity in a variety of ways, monthly, semi-annually, annually, or in a single up-front payment.

Some variable annuities now offer as many as 30 different kinds of investment accounts, four or five stock accounts for various investment goals, three or four bond accounts, government securities, real estate, mortgages, precious metals, etc. You have almost as wide a choice as you have with a brokerage account. And you can switch during the year from one investment account to another.

With some variable annuities, you can put your money into well-known, professionally managed investment funds, such as those operated by Fidelity, Newberger Berman, Van Eyk and Wellington.

film review

The story of a nine-year-old boy, played very precociously by Macaulay Culkin, left alone in a huge home on Christmas, when his well-to-do parents take the rest of the family to Paris for the holidays, is one of the biggest kids' films for the holidays.

No doubt most of the kids will flock to this one if just to see how Culkin thwarts the two thieves that are trying to break into his house.

These two silly characters are played creditably by Joe Pesci and Daniel Stern.

Culkin is one of those "cute" kids that tends to play to the audience too much. The story is full of holes like when his mother calls the police and the neighbors frantically from Paris but never tries to get her son at home by phone.

Or when a cop leaves immediately without getting an answer to his rapping on the door, even though he has a report that a child has been left in the same house alone, possibly for days.

Also why didn't the old man next door take him home with him until the parents came home, after he found out what the boy's plight was?

There are quite a few laughs as the boy traps the two crooks, together and alone, inflicting unbelievable pain upon the intruders. The fact that he would probably need the special effects department of the movie studio to pull most of these off also comes to mind.

If you want some light laughs, and don't mind ignoring all the flaws, take the kids to see this one, they'll love it.

That is unless you don't want the kids exposed to violence of any kind, if so forget it! We give it a 3.5 out of five points Rated P-G 13.

Mecaulay Culkin

be there

The Apple Tree Theatre in Highland Park will open its new production of "Closer Than Ever," with music by Richard Maltby, Jr. and lyrics by David Shire, on Sunday, Dec. 9.

The Bowen Park Theatre Company will be presenting "The Christmas That Almost Wasn't" at Goodfellow Hall in Waukegan on Dec. 15, at 10 a.m., 12 and 2 p.m. and on Dec. 16 at 2 and 4 p.m.

On Friday and Saturday, Lake Forest College's Garrick Players will present a program of student directed and acted one-act plays.

Doug Anderson, guitarist who plays a mixture of original compositions, unpredictable arrangements of well-known tunes, classical and other repertoire, will appear at the Stage Two Theatre on Genesee st. in Waukegan at 8 p.m. on Dec. 8 and 15.

Appearing in the Kirk Players' season kickoff production, 'Curious Savage,' are, standing, Bob Thomas, Barrington, and sitting, left, Russ Slade, Mundelein and Paula Willems, Mundelein. The show will be staged in the Mundelein High School theater, at 8 p.m. on Dec. 7 and 8. Proceeds will go to the Omni Youth Services Greenhouse Program.

'The Messiah' at St. Peters Church

One of the most thrillingly beautiful events of the Christmas season is scheduled for performance on Sunday, Dec. 16 at 8 p.m. when "The Messiah" by G. F. Handel will be presented by the Antioch Community Chorus in the lovely sanctuary of St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, Lake St. in Antioch.

Ralph Brooke, retired choral director and chairman of the fine arts department at Antioch Community High School, will conduct the eighth voice chorus.

The soprano soloist will be Susan Stokes from Evanston. Susan was heard by local audiences in the role of Mimi in the Bowen Park Opera Company's production of "LA Boheme".

Eva Harper of Lake Villa, will be the alto soloist. Harper is a very popular vocal teacher and church choir director in the area.

The tenor role will be sung by Kevin Wood of Chicago. He has done extensive solo and operatic work in the city and suburban areas and was seen by local audiences in the roles of Mack the Knife in "Threepenny Opera" and as County Almaviva in "The Barber of Seville", both at the Bowen Park Opera.

David King of Racine will perform the bass role in "The Messiah". He is a member of the Florentine Opera Company of Milwaukee and has performed at the Bowen Park Opera Company, most recently as Figaro in "The Barber of Seville".

Although the basics costs of the performance have been born by the following local businesses as freewill offering will be taken to raise additional funds for future concerts: State Bank of Antioch, First National Bank of Antioch, The Antioch Rotary Club, Persin and Persin Jewelers and The Strang Funeral Home of Antioch.

Rosebud, Andre's ready for new season

Support for dinner/theatre has been growing in the area and this has encouraged Andre's Steakhouse and Rosebud Productions to expand their dinner/theatre season in 1991. The new season will have five separate plays compared to three in the past.

The first part of the season will run from Jan. 5 until April 20, and the second part of the season will be in November. Producer/Director Tom Hausman, who is beginning his fourth year at the helm of Rosebud Productions, has stated that "our new season will have something for everyone. We're doing four comedies plus one musical. Also, patrons can purchase either single shows tickets, a pass for all five shows, or a special three show pass with the patron picking which three to see. We want to be consumer oriented. Our patrons last season help us select the 1991 season."

The five shows will be "Norman, is that you?" (Jan. 5 to 26); "Lullaby" (Feb. 2 to 23); "Weekend Comedy" (March 2 to 23); "What about Luv?" (a new musical based upon the hit comedy "Luv" from March 29 to April 20); and "Wife begins at Forty" (Nov. 9 to 30).

Andre's Steakhouse is located on Rte. 12 one-half mile north of Rte. 173 in Richmond. Call (815)678-2671 for ticket information and reservations.

According to the Norwegian Salmon Marketing Council, Inc., "Risk-free adventure" seems to be the way many of us approach food preparation and consumption. As the holidays approach, a "risk-free adventure" awaits culinary enthusiasts who have a love for seafood but have had difficulty adding it to their list of holiday delights.

Gravlax—a delicate preparation of marinated, cured salmon—is a "special occasion" food that's a tradition throughout Norway, dating back hundreds of years. The preparation is relatively simple and risk-free and the taste is a distinctively refreshing seafood experience that will excite any holiday appetite.

Gravlax was first made in the northern regions of Norway hundreds of years ago. Fishermen preserved their fresh catch in a marinade of salt, sugar, pepper and dill. As culinary lore goes, the marinated salmon (lax) were buried (gravad) in the ground under the snow and unearthed only at special occasions.

Today, Norwegian cooks still chill their gravlax under the snow during the holidays when space in their refrigerators is limited. They serve it as a part of the traditional holiday smorgasbord with a special mustard sauce an crispbrod, or thin rye crackers.

Classic Norwegian Gravlax

3 to 3 1/2 lbs. fresh salmon, center cut, cleaned, boned and scaled
1 large bunch of fresh dill
1/4 cup kosher salt (or substitute regular salt)
1/4 cup sugar
2 Tbls. white peppercorns, crushed (or substitute black)

Place one half of the fish, skin side down, in a deep glass or enamel casserole dish. Wash the dill and shake dry. Spread the dill on top of the fish. (If the dill is not pungent, chop it coarsely before you spread it over the fish). In a separate bowl, combine the salt, sugar and crushed peppercorns. Sprinkle this mixture over the dill. Top this with the first half of the salmon.

Cover the fish with aluminum foil and place a large, flat-bottomed platter over that. Weight the foil-covered fish evenly with several heavy food cans. Refrigerate 2 to 3 days, turning the salmon every 12 hours and basting with the marinade that seeps out of the fish. Replace the platter and weights each time. (The gravlax will keep for up to seven days).

When ready to serve, slice thinly on a diagonal. Garnish with lemon and serve with a mustard sauce as an appetizer.

Gravlaxas

(Traditional mustard and dill sauce for gravlax)
4 Tbls. dark, highly seasoned mustard
1 tsp. powdered mustard
3 Tbls. sugar
2 Tbls. white vinegar
1/3 cup good vegetable oil
3 Tbls. fresh chopped dill

Mix the two mustards together. Add sugar and vinegar until it forms a thick paste. Whisk in the oil to form a sauce with a mayonnaise-like consistency. Stir in the dill and cover tightly. Will keep for up to seven days refrigerated.

(Recipe adapted from Dale Brown's "The Cooking of Scandinavia").

Norwegian Gravlax

Quick cure Norwegian Gravlax

2 1/2 to 3 lbs. fresh salmon fillet, boned and skin on
1 1/4 Tbls. kosher salt (or substitute. regular salt)
3/4 Tbls. sugar
2 tsp. fragrant dried dill
2 to 3 Tbls. Aquavit (a Norwegian liqueur)
Several sprigs of fresh dill for decoration

Using a very sharp knife, trim off jagged or too-thin edges at both ends of the fillet. Then, starting at larger end slice the salmon in 1/8 inch thick slices, as though slicing smoked salmon (do not slice through the skin). Arrange the slices in one layer on a pastry sheet with the skin. Lay out the salmon skin with the flesh side facing up.

In a small bowl, combine the salt and sugar. Then sprinkle a good pinch of the mixture over each of the salmon slices. Dust each slice with the dried dill. Then rub each slice with a drop of the Aquavit. Turn each slice over and repeat curing procedure on the other side. Then season the flesh side of the skin in the same manner.

Place the skin, flesh side up, on a serving platter and arrange slices on the skin. Cover sliced salmon with the fresh dill sprigs and wrap with plastic.

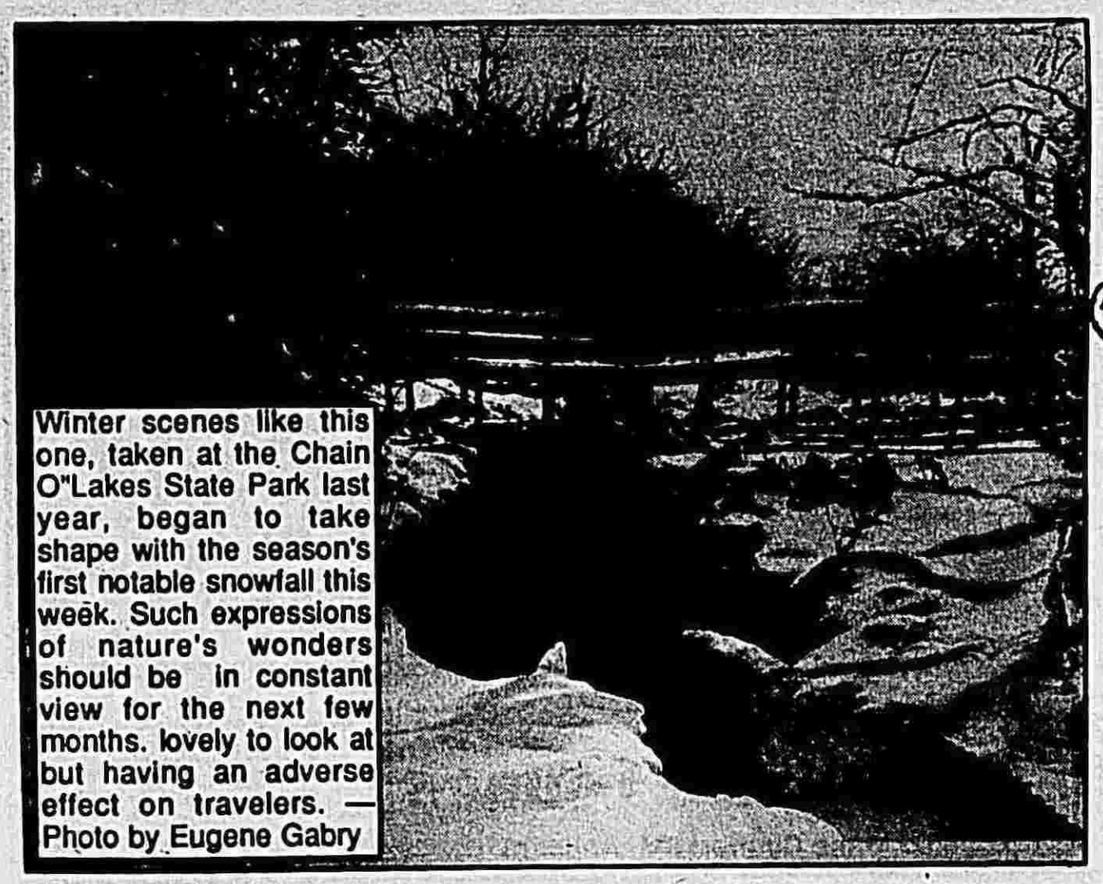

Refrigerate for several hours. The fish is ready to eat and will improve when chilled 24 hours. Serve with mustard-dill sauce as as appetizer.

(Recipe adapted from Julia Child's "The Way To Cook").

Navy women's study group to visit Great Lakes N.T.C.

A study group reviewing the progress of women in the Navy will solicit input from Navy men and women in the Great Lakes area during a local visit Dec. 8 to 11.

"We have assembled a tremendous array of talent and experience," said Rear Admiral Roberta L. Hazard, director of personal readiness and community support, who is chairing the 25-member Navy Women's Study Group. "Members of the group cover the spectrum of Navy people—officer and senior enlisted men and women from both ashore and afloat commands."

'It's getting difficult to find firsts for Navy women anymore.'—Vice Adm. Mike Boorda

The 13 women, 12 men, and supporting staff will spend the next two months reviewing progress made since the Navy's first formal study group on women met in 1987, and seeking new ways to ensure continued progress.

"We have aggressively implemented the vast majority of the recommendations from the 1987 study—such as opening the Combat Logistics Force ships to women, and equalizing sea/shore rotation," said Hazard. "It's encouraging that we are reviewing that study to identify just how well those changes have taken hold, and also to identify new directions, new policies, and new opportunities for the 90's."

Vice Adm. Mike Boorda, chief of naval personnel, told the group on its first day that the Navy is "better today than it was in 1987."

"Women are being advanced at better percentages, and are serving in more jobs." He pointed, as an example, to the 1,400 Navy women now serving in the Persian Gulf theater as part of Operation Desert Shield.

"It's getting difficult to find 'firsts' for Navy women anymore," he said, "but we can't afford to become complacent. You're going to find a lot of things that we can and must do better."

Boorda challenged the study group members to "rise above the emotion, and get to the facts. Only through truth will the Navy continue to advance."

The study group is divided into four panels: policy and utilization, quality of life, equal opportunity, and other key issues (such as fraternization and single parents). Four seven-member travel teams, made up of representatives from each panel, will visit Navy commands at the following 15 world-wide locations: Western Pacific (Adak, Alaska/Guam/Hawaii; Europe (Holy Lock, Scotland/Keflavik, Iceland/Naples, Italy/Rota, Spain/Sigonella, Sicily); West Coast and Midwest (San Diego/San Francisco/Naval Training Center Great Lakes); and East Coast (Brunswick, Maine/Jacksonville, Fla./Mayport, Fla./Kings Bay, Ga./Norfolk, Va./Orlando, Fla.).

During the visits, group members will solicit both oral and written input through surveys, meetings and interviews. Prearranged groups will be asked to complete a written survey, and will then be asked specific questions concerning each panel area. To facilitate honest discussion and prevent intimidation, interview groups will be categorized according to sex and rank.

Study group members will also be available for one-on-one discussion during the evening at a phone number and meeting area to be publicized locally. Team members will also meet privately with command leaders.

Navy men and women who do not have the opportunity to talk personally with study team members may provide direct input to the study group through special telephone numbers. The following numbers will be manned Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. (EST), until Dec. 14: 1(800)235-2749 (toll free), or autovon 225-8077 (for overseas callers).

Data collected from the visits and telephone calls will be combined wit input gained from briefings and other sources such as a recent Black Women's Study Group report. All inputs will be carefully assessed and analyzed with the support and advice of trained facilitators and analysts.

Following an interim report to the Chief of Naval Operations on Dec. 15, the study group will begin to compile data into recommendations and conclusions.

Roberta L. Hazard

The final report will be written in January, followed by briefings and reports to Navy leaders and others.

According to Capt. Kathleen Bruyers, a study group member who also participated in the 1987 study, the focus of the final report will be both pragmatic and far-sighted. "We have been steadily implementing the 1987 recommendations," said Bruyere. "Now we need to look at the role of Navy women into the next century."

Adm. Hazard emphasized that any conclusions or recommendations resulting from the study group will be based only on hard data, not on opinion. "The study group will give the Navy a road map to ensure that we stay on target," said Hazard.

The Poconos, Pennsylvania's Honeymoon Hills
by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Way back in the 1930's the first resort exclusively for honeymooners opened in the Pocono Mountains. This setting of low hills, meandering streams and cool waterfalls has attracted newlyweds for over 50 years. But what would our grandparents, who may have spent their own honeymoon here, think of the private in-room swimming pools, translucent champagne glass shaped bathtubs, mirrored ceilings and heart shaped hot tubs found in the Pocono Resorts of today? I believe mine would have loved it.

With anything from Swiss chalets with canopied beds and braided rugs to sexy, multi-leveled suites with round, velvet-covered beds and crystal chandeliers, you may never want to venture outside. But even on a honeymoon, that would be a mistake with all the Pocono's have to offer.

You may wish to explore the winding paths leading to cool mountain brooks and waterfalls. Hop in a paddle boat or canoe to explore the several lakes. Take your pick of tennis courts or a round of golf.

It really doesn't matter what time of year you decide to honeymoon. The Poconos have something to offer year round. Summer is warm enough for water sports, but the mountains always provide a cooling breeze. Autumn is ideal for hiking or horseback riding through a rainbow of forest colors. In the winter snowmobiling, tobogganing, sledding and of course super skiing on the slopes at Camelback.

One great advantage of the Pocono Resorts is that they are all inclusive. That is, you pay one price before you get there which includes your meals, your accommodations and all sorts of land and lake sports and the equipment you need to enjoy them. Your bar bill is, however, not included.

So if Hawaii or a cruise may be out of your budget, give the Poconos a try and save the more costly vacation for a first anniversary.

Tips on keeping your car healthy all winter long

Winterizing a car does not necessarily mean an expensive trip to the auto shop or service station. Car owners can actively prolong the life of their investment and avoid skyrocketing repair costs this winter by taking advantage of one simple, effective tip for personally maintaining their car's peak performance.

This cost-saving upkeep tip is to use fuel additives. Chemical formulas designed to eliminate stalling, sluggishness, reduced power, decreased mileage, knock, ping and run-on (dieseling) caused by carbon deposits. Over time, these deposits collect throughout the entire intake system, gradually decreasing the engine's ability to function properly. The result? Poor engine performance and expensive visits to the shop to have the deposits professionally removed—which, according to mechanics, can cost $350 or more.

While all cars are prone to carbon deposit build-up regardless of make, model and year, today's smaller and more powerful car engines are particularly sensitive to carbon deposits, especially those equipped with fuel injectors. Fuel injectors spray the exact amount of fuel needed into each cylinder through tiny orifices to deliver maximum performance. Because these openings are so small, less than the width of a human hair, even small deposits can clog the fuel-injectors resulting in poor engine performance.

An easy, fast-acting solution is regular use of quality fuel additives which are specially formulated to combat deposit build-up. Simply pouring a fuel additive into the gas tank before fueling once a month, or every 1,000 miles, ensures peak performance and reduced time and money spent on maintenance.

However, just as all gasolines are not created equal, neither are fuel additives. According to information published by the Society of Automotive Engineers (SAE), some gasoline additives can cause more harm than good because, as they break down existing carbon deposits, they create and leave new deposits behind.

Technologically advanced products additives are specifically designed to safely break down carbon deposits and remove them from the engine, without creating new deposits. A special ingredient in these products, Chevron's patented Techron® gives these additives the power to remove even difficult combustion chamber deposits safely.

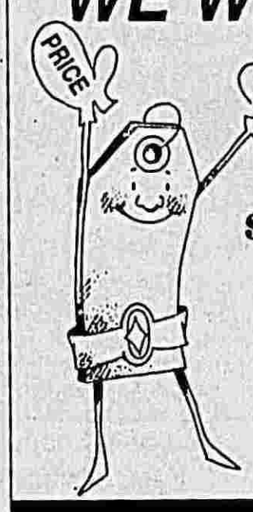

This innovative chemistry, developed in the company's extensive research facilities, has faced rigorous testing in what may be a car engine's toughest environment, the taxi cab. After 50,000 miles of driving with normal maintenance, 80 San Diego, Calif., taxicabs were dissembled for inspection in the lab. This study again confirmed that engines which used additives formulated with Techron® has consistently cleaner intake and fuel metering systems than those using other additives.

These results have caused most foreign and domestic automakers, from Audi to Volvo, to recommend or approve fuel additives with Techron® to right deposit build-up.

As the temperature drops, fuel additives can help car owners eliminate performance problems this winter and keep engines running clean during a season when peak performance is vital.

Waxes can protect car's finish in harsh winter

With leaf residue, acid rain, salt, and road grime all contributing to the rust and corrosion of your car's body, it's time to consider protecting your cars finish. Professionally applied waxes can protect your car and keep it looking good through the harsh winter months.

Professional applications are easier to apply than hand waxes and they go on much more evenly, leaving no residue build up. Professional wax applications are also less costly when time and money are considered.

Car owners who apply wax by hand can run several risks. If your car has any dirt on it, waxing can seriously scratch the surface of the car. For a paste wax shine, professional car washes and detail shops are better prepared to do the job correctly. They clean the care thoroughly and use professional power buffers that burnish the wax to produce a more glossy, protective shine.

There are two basic types of waxes. A polish was should be applied first. This wax cleans, conditions, and protects your car's surface. It should be applied more often during the winter.

A sealer wax is a water-soluble wax which, when sprayed on, enhances the effects of the polish wax, and gives the car a high-gloss, protective shine. Sealer waxes are commonly know by names such as polycreme or foam.

Today's care owners are keeping their cars longer, an average of 7.5 years.

PETERSEN

FIRST FLOOR PLAN
OVERALL DIMENSIONS: 24'-0" x 40'-0"
LIVING: 1380 square feet

SECOND FLOOR PLAN
208-02 PETERSEN
By Landmark Designs

The Petersen, with its barn-shaped gambrel room, is a no-nonsense vacation get-away with a distinctively country flavor. The compact design helps keep building costs low and maintenance time at a minimum. A deck, which wraps around two-thirds of the home, provides a substantial increase in living space when weather permits.

Unlike an A-frame cabin, where the steep roofline leaves minimal usable floorspace on the second floor, the gambrel-roofed cabin loses very little of its upstairs space to the roof slope. Consequently, both upstairs bedrooms are much larger than those usually found in small cabins.

Each of the bedrooms has its own closet, and they share a bath. The one with the balcony is sure to be the favorite. Built in a location with a pamoramic view, this perch would be ideal for watching sunsets, birds, changing seasons, and wildlife or keeeping an eye on children.

The living area, downstairs, is also quite large, open and bright. With the fireplace so close to the front door, dirty and snowy footgear can be shucked off immediately after entering, and left to dry where it's warm. The stairway is also conveniently close, allowing people to run upstairs quickly, for dry clothing.

Despite its compact size, the galley kitchen offers more cupboard and counter space than most cabin designs. The main flor bathroom has cafe doors, and a compartmentalized water closet, allowing two people privacy at once.

For a study plan of the PETERSEN (208-02), send $5.00 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, or 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering). Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by Charles King Cooper

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) The beginning of the week will find you a bit impatient, but then you settle down to have a very productive work week. Good news affects the family circle. Freelance assignments loom on the horizon.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Try to exercise more understanding in connection with children. The artistically talented will be pleased with what they create this week. Pleasure pursuits are happily accented, so feel free to entertain at home this weekend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A small irritation could arise with a friend this week. You're getting your house in order for the holidays and will be pleased with what you accomplish there this week. Major shopping is favored, so it's a good time to finish that holiday shopping.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You may be in too much of a rush to get a career matter settled. It would be wise to exercise patience. Partners work well together as a team this week. Good news makes for happiness over the weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Those who travel at this time are prone to overspend, so watch your wallets. You'll get a lot of routine tasks settled to your satisfaction now. The weekend brings favorable financial developments.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Go easy on your use of credit now, even though the holidays are coming. It would be better to think in terms of smaller gifts, or even homemade gifts. Otherwise, things develop to your satisfaction. Meetings with friends are fun.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A low profile works to your advantage in business this week. You'll get some unfinished tasks out of the way now. Inwardly, you may be slightly upset with a loved one. Don't bottle this up. Express yourself and clear the air.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your hands are full with a job concern as the week begins, but there will be plenty of time for fun and relaxation once this is cleared up. Socially, your popularity is on the rise, so make plans for the New Year now.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) There's an itch for adventure now, but your main opportunities lie in work areas. Apply yourself, and you'll be pleased with the position you find yourself in by the end of the week. Family and friends are cooperative, so joint projects prosper.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Strain could exist between an in-law and a family member today. It's a good week for making plans for travel. The weekend places an accent on love and togetherness, mending a recent rift among family members.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A conservative approach is best with regard to investment interests this week. Take time to think propositions over carefully. While you're normally quite cautious, for some reason, you are tempted to make snap judgments this week.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) While you may have a disagreement about a shopping matter this week, otherwise, things will go your way. The weekend favors going somewhere special and romantic with a loved one. Spend time alone with each other rather than socializing with friends.

IF YOU WERE BORN THIS WEEK, you are both independent and cooperative. You have an introspective side and may be artistically talented.

Two-headed rebounder?

Antioch's Rex Ballinger tries to pull down a rebound against Libertyille's Scott Keegan. Libertyville bounced back from early Antioch lead to win 63-57. Antioch is at unbeaten Stevenson Dec. 7 and hosts Warren Dec. 8. - Photo by Steve Young.

Executing a pass

Antioch junior guard Howie Filip tries to execute a pass against the pressure defense applied by Libertyville. Antioch's Mike Warren (55) is ready for the pass, but it must get past Libertyville's John Bauer (32) and Brian Davis (25). Libertyville won North Suburban Conference game 63-57. Wildcats host Zion-Benton Dec. 7 and Fenton Dec. 8. Antioch is at Stevenson Dec. 7 and hosts Warren Dec. 8. - Photo by Steve Young.

Unbeaten Pats, Warren next Antioch challenges

Antioch boys basketball Coach Jeff Dresser had good reason to be pleased with the way his team played for the first 16 minutes against Libertyville.

The Sequoits enjoyed a 32-24 lead at intermission. But when the third quarter started, so did the visitors' downfall.

A 26-13 run in the third quarter was enough to send the home team to a 63-57 win.

"I thought we played real well in the first half but didn't do the things which got us there in the second half," Dresser said.

Antioch fell to 1-4 with the loss and will try and bounce back at undefeated Stevenson Dec. 7 and by hosting Warren Dec. 8. Both games begin at 7:30 p.m.

Junior Tim Fox, playing in his first game of the season, scored 20 points to pace Antioch's efforts. "He had a real good game for us. He'll give us another outside shooter and help our big guys some," Dresser said.

Senior Dan Mead contributed 13 points. "Dan played one of the better games I've seen him play," Dresser said.

Libertyville's weapons included 20 points from Andy Davis, 10 from Andy Bauer and 11 from guard John Cimaroli.

Mead closed the gap to three in the final two minutes but Libertyville held on.

Following the loss to Libertyville, Dreser scouted the Patriots in a 72-62 win over North Chicago. "They're just unbelievable. The key was they got the ball to Coleman (Chris) and North Chicago was a little undisciplined," Dresser said. Coleman led the Pats with 24 points.

Despite the 1-4 start, Dresser is optimistic about the team's chances. "We've been right in games at the end we should have won," Dresser said.

For Libertyville, the start of the contest was a bad dream, recalling a loss to Barrington in the Jacobs Thanksgiving tournament.

"We were a little flat in the first half. It was smilar to the Barrington game," Libertyville Coach Max Sanders said.

Warren, Antioch's Saturday night opponent, split the first two NSC games, losing to Fenton 58-55 but beating Nile North 50-35.

Libertyville followed up on the win over Antioch with a thriller, 67-65 in overtime.

Matt Williams overcame a sinus problem to score 23 points to lead effort in the win. "I was really concerned because Matt was sick all week. He wasn't in school for three days. But he was pretty much all over the place," Sanders said.

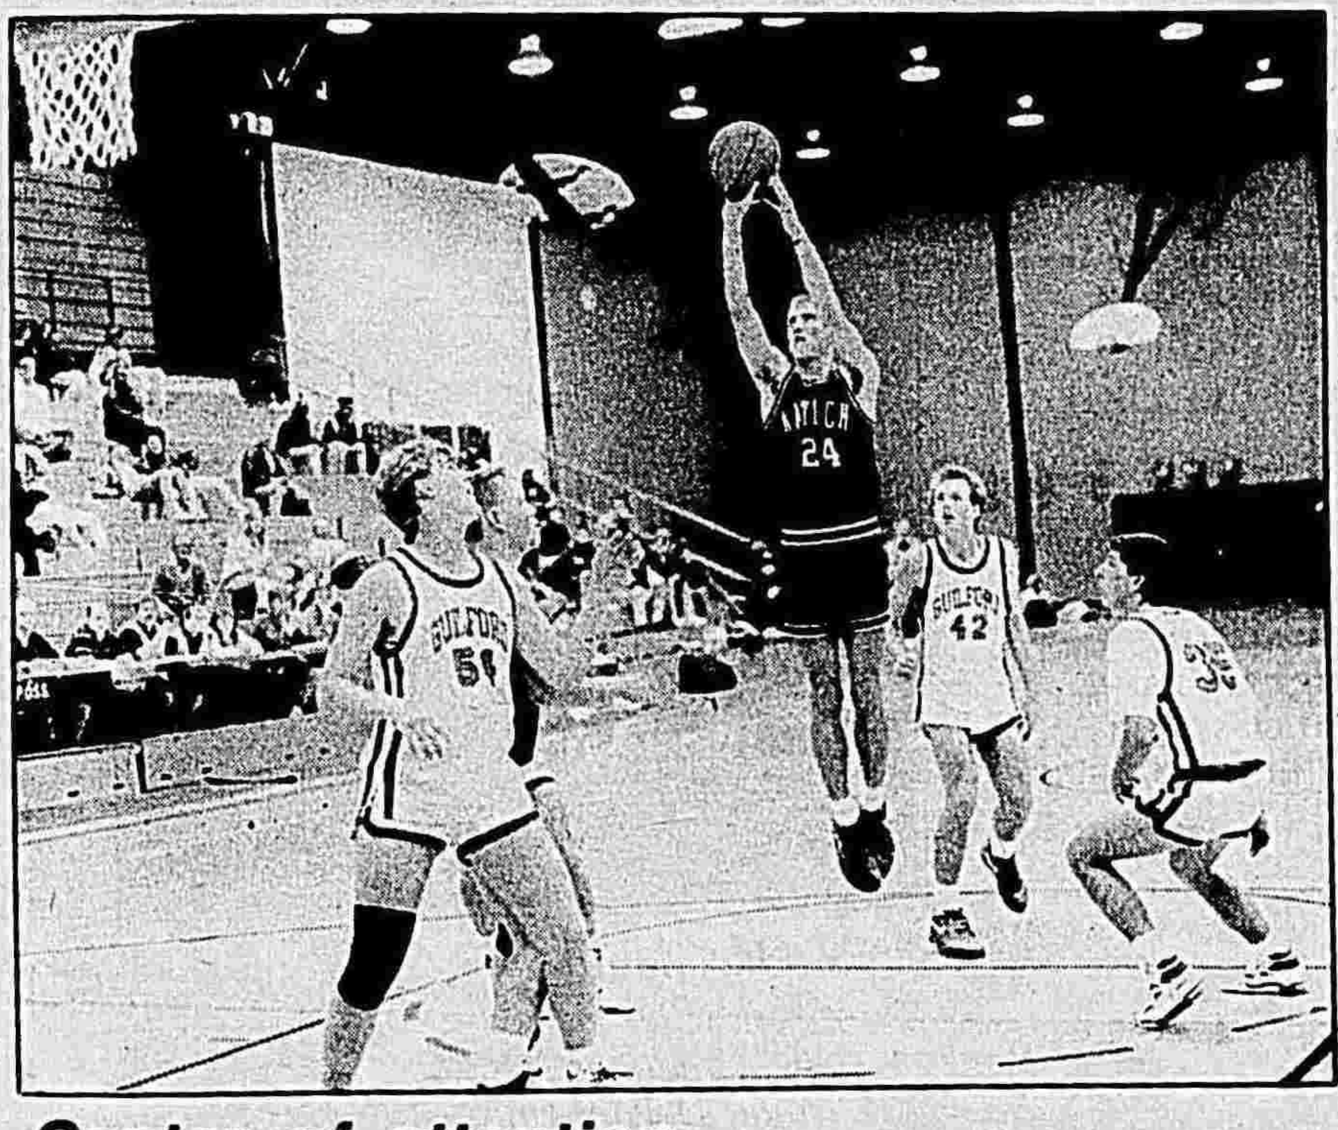

"They played real well. When Mundelein and Libertyville play, you can throw records out the window," Sanders said.

John Cimaroli, who had earlier provided late heroics for the Wildcats, made a layup for a 67-64 lead with less than 30 seconds left.

"John is good under pressure and is a good free-throw shooter," Sanders said.

Libertyville, 2-0 in the NSC, will have an opportunity to gain ground on the rest of the league as the Willdcats host Zion-Benton Dec. 7 and Fenton Dec. 8. Although off to a good start, Sanders is still focusing on him team's progress. "We're still concerned about ourselves and setting the right screens and picks and about our execution," Sanders said.

Mundelein was coming off a 60-50 win over Zion-Benton. Mundelein enjoyed a 13-2 edge in free throws. Shawn Harlan led the team with 17 points, Mike O'Connor had 14 and Alvin Cruz 11.

Center of attention

All eyes are on Antioch's Steve Manderschied as he puts home a 13 foot jump shot. Antioch, off to a 1-4 start, is hoping to notch its first conference win this weekend. Antioch is at Stevenson Dec. 7 and hosts Warren Dec. 8 in NSC play. - Photo by Steve Young.

County wide youth hoops tourney honors Keith Ryan

The Tournament Committee of the Knights of Columbus, Council 9689 of Grayslake, will once again use the College of Lake County as home to the fifth annual mid-season Lake County Invitational Basketball and Cheerleading Championships.

Permission has been granted by Michael Woyan, son of the late legendary Lake County Sportscaster Keith Ryan to honor Mr. Ryan with the tournament.

The Keith Ryan Pride and School Spirit Award will be presented to the school that exemplifies the highest extreme of moral and ethical standards of teams, cheerleaders and fans during the entire tournament. The tourney will be held Dec. 22, 23, 29, 30 and Jan. 12, 13, 19 and 20 at the College of Lake County. (708)223-8768.

This is an eighth grade parochial school tournament. Since it's conception in 1986, the tournament has been a sixteen team event. In 1989-90 we expanded the field to thirty-two teams and added a Girls Basketball Championship along with the Knights of Columbus State District Free Throw Competition. The schools come from Lake County, McHenry County, Cook County and DuPage County. The free-throw competition is open to any boy or girl 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14 years of age.

Tournament Chairman and Founder Norm Kleber expects another banner this year. "Nobody in the country runs a tournament like this, but I wish someone else would try it. The Lake County Community rallies around the K of C in this Great youth and community project. Breaking even dollar-wise is our unreachable goal, but this unique tournament is worth it! We were Awarded #1 youth program in the State of Illinois for this event in 1989-90. We don't charge any school an entry fee! We go one step further and present each squad/team a participating trophy-win or lose. Our goal is the team concept more than individual. The Grayslake Knights of Columbus believe in what we call the whole school concept and supports the concept of athletics as an integral part of the educational process assisting in the development of citizenship, sportsmanship, and above all, pride and school spirit in our youth. The participating schools have pledged to prohibit and discourage negative factors intended to ridicule, demean or distract opponents or officials and to encourage positive displays of sportsmanship with pride and school spirit."

Keith Ryan understood the concept of this tournament in its planning stages in 1986 and helped promote it for three years. Now, it is only fitting to have this man honored in a county-wide event.

Foss gives Washington a nickname spelling tip

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Lisa Foss wants to get one thing straight from the start.

"The Washington Coach (Chris Gobrecht) said it was open at the banquet it was open to question which way to spell Huskie. It is spelled Huskies," Foss said.

Foss was indeed out to prove a point in the championship game of the Northern Illinois University Fastbreak fest Sunday. Foss, a Lake Zurich graduate, scored 41 points as NIU topped the Washington Husky 82-75.

"This was the first game we have won that we wern't supposed to win," NIU Coach Jane Albright said.

Foss continued a hot shooting streak she had started earlier in the week in an overtime win at Southern Illinois. The guard scored then a career-high 33 points against the Salukis. The 41-point outing represented half of the NIU points and set a new tourney record. Foss, who scored 104 points in three games, was named MVP.

"They do a good job and know their roles. Lisa's role is to score," Albright said.

Foss shot 14-for-21 from the field, 66 percent and 13-for-14 from the free-throw line, 93 percent. She also contributed five rebounds.

"She is a great offensive player; no doubt about that," Washington Coach Gobrecht said.

The host Huskies had to overcome poor starts in both halves to secure their second Fastbreak fest title. NIU missed their first nine shots to start the game. "That (the Washington lead) proved to be a big mistake because when NIU started making shots, we did not adjust. We weren't going to stop her, but players were given specific instructions not to let her get the ball. We play a lot of teams with one-player stars and we like to stop the other four players," Gobrecht said.

It was one of Foss's three steals which got the Huskies back into the game. Ahead 21-10, Washington suddenly found that lead reduced to three points when Toby Meeks stole the ball and had a layup.

NIU gained 31-all tie but saw Washintgon score the last six points in the first half. The lead grew to 12 in the first five minutes of the second half before Foss again sparked a comeback. She contributed seven points as NIU cut the lead to 59-57 midway through the second half.

Foss hit some key shots down the stretch. A driving layup gave NIU a 71-70 lead at 3:18 and she added two free throws at 1:42 for a 74-72 margin. "NIU wanted the game a lot more than we did. We did not raise our level of intensity," Gobrecht said.

The Huskies have had several landmark games since Albright took over the program, but this one, played on the night snow would soon shut down most of the DeKalb area ranks right up there.

NIU was looking for a top 20 ranking after beating the "other" Husky, which was No. 13 coming in. "I have a vote, and I know I'll vote for us," Albright said.

There was one moment, at 8:33 left, when Albright felt confident.

"I knew we would win when Lisa missed the free throw. You could tell she was mad. And when she is mad, she will have the last laugh," Albright said with a smile.

And as it turns out, Foss has the ability to give spelling lessons as well.

Carmel to hit the road for two key ESCC tilts

First, the good news for Carmel basketball Coach Scott Rosberg.

The Corsairs will be heading into two key early-season conference games off an easy non-conference win. The bad news: East Suburban Catholic Conference games Dec. 7 against Joliet Catholic and Dec. 8 against Holy Cross are on the road.

"We are going to have our hands full. It will be a pivotal weekend for us," Rosberg said.

The Corsairs, 4-1 overall, lost their first game of the season 60-54 to St. Viator last week.

"It was a difficult loss to swallow. We were down 14 points, then up by seven," Rosberg said.

St. Viator enjoyed a big 18-7 lead after one, but Carmel ran off a 20-8 spurt to get back into the game in the second quarter. Carmel's dominance continued in the third, with an 14-8 run.

But the Lions doubled the home team in the final stanza, 26-13.

Guard Chris Mohr led Carmel with 18 points, while Pete Eisenbarth had 13.

The Corsairs then took their frustrations out on Crystal Lake South. Playing for the first time in Gator Alley, the Corsairs made themselves feel very much at home with a 28-13 run to start the game. The Gators were never a factor as Carmel led 46-20 at halftime.

"The big thing is we bounced back after losing the night before and played well together," Rosberg said.

Leading the way for CHS was Keith Ryan, who had 17 points. Mohr had 14.

Pats, 'Cats shooting for different goals in NSC

Stevenson will be looking to continue its stay in first place while Mundelein and Libertyville will both be after their first conference wins in girls basketball action Dec. 8.

Stevenson, 5-1 overall, started the week at 3-0 in the North Suburban Conference. The Pats travel to Libertyville Dec. 8 for a key NSC showdown. Game times are 2:30 p.m.

The Pats are coming off a 62-47 win over Mundelein which featured a strong second-half effort.

A buzzer-beater from the top-of-the-key good for three points lifted the Mustangs to a 28-27 lead.

But Mundelein, which challenged Lake Forest to a 43-40 loss two days earlier, fell as Stevenson gained control in the third quarter. Junior Jayne Hackbart led the Pats with 19 points. Courtney DeBolt added 13.

"They made a big run at us, especially in the third quarter when they scored 10 straight points," Mundelein Coach Parry Wilhelm said.

Georgia Chresanthakes led Mundelein with 11, Shauna Kessel added 10.

Mundelein, 0-7, 0-4, still had some positives to show from the two losses, according to Coach Wilhelm.

Mundelein hosts Niles North Dec. 8

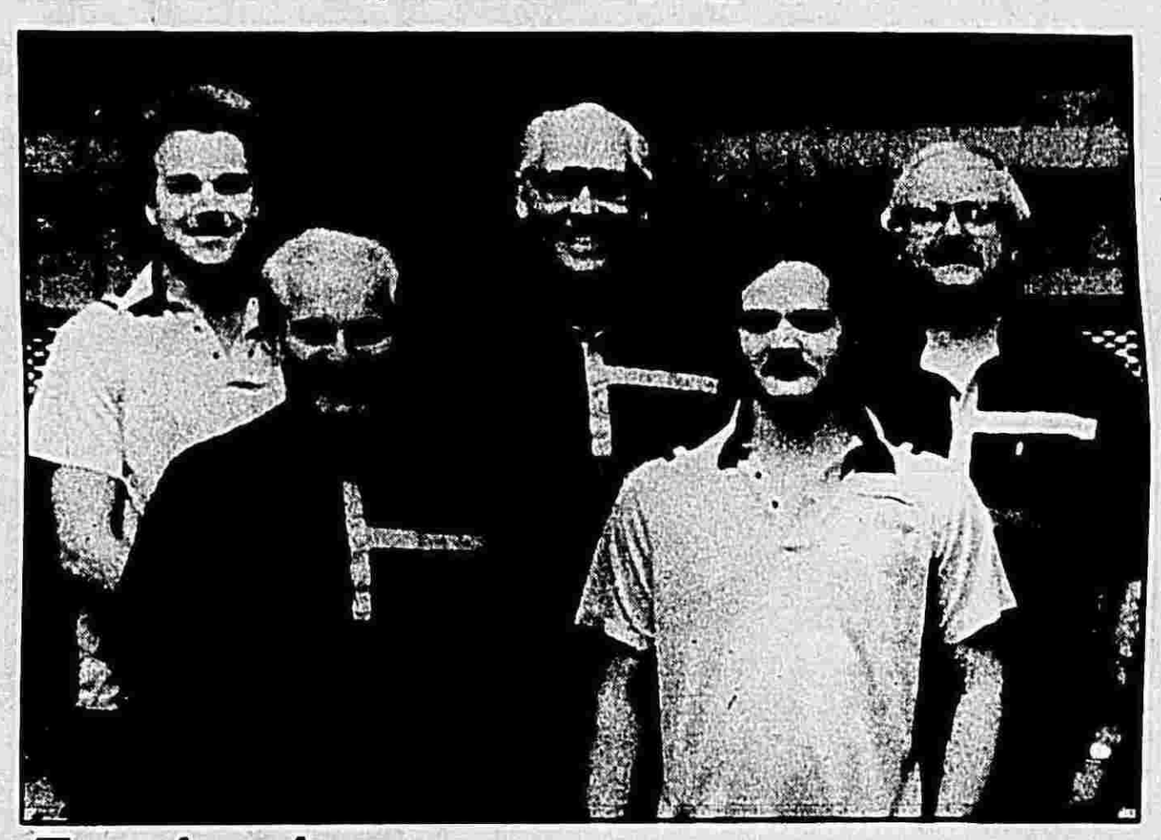

Libertyville will be coming into the Stevenson game off a 59-50 loss to Fenton. Kristen Fletcher scored 16 and Tara Driscoll added 12 for Libertyville. The Wildcats won their first five games before dropping two NSC contests.

Huntington contributes in LFC win

The Lake Forest College women's basketball team remained undefeated in the early going of the 1990-91 season. The Foresters routed Cathrage Collge 77-55. Head Coach Jackie Slaats continued to exploit her team's depth, using 12 of the team's 15 players.

Leading scorers included junior forward Teri Huntington who scored 17 points. Huntington also had six rebounds. Jill Morrison led the team with 27 points.

Huntington played for the 1987-88 Warren Twp. High School team which qualified for the Elite Eight and two years at College of Lake County. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gale Huntington.

Top bowlers

Alexander, CLC 's defense stops Rock Valley in win

Rock Valley's women's basketball team may have thought it was going up against a brick wall Saturday when they played the College of Lake County.

Actually, the brick wall turned out to be the outsretched hands of one Caryn Alexander. Alexander blocked 13 Rock Valley shots, and had a triple double as CLC won its first game of the season, 47-46.

"It was her finest game as a collegiate," CLC Coach Don Zeman said.

Alexander led CLC with 20 points and had 16 rebounds as well.

"We had some excellent interior defense," Zeman said, noting the play of Kelly Doyle.

Rachel Smith gave CLC the final score when she hit an 18-foot jump shot with 1:30 left. CLC had chances to ice the win with free throws, but missed three. Alexander, though, came through with a block of the final Rock Valley shot with three seconds left.

Spiller complimented Alexander's efforts with 19 points.

CLC was coming off a 47-33 loss to South Suburban. CLC trailed just 23-20 at halftime, but lost the second half 24-13. Alexander had 13 points for CLC and Spiller had 10.

Sue Spiller had 10 points for After battling Harper Dec. 6, CLC is off until it face Moraine Valley in an away game Dec. 13.

Antioch, North Chicago girls aim for confidence

The prediction may have been a little off, but Warren Twp. High School girls basketball team did not seem to mind.

"Seventy points," Kate Serdar predicted as the team went in to hear Coach Bruce Campbell's instructions. That was before Warren handled Antioch easily 65-40 Saturday.

The Blue Devils remained undefeated at 7-0 with the win, while Antioch fell to 2-5 overall.

"We played even in every aspect except fouls," Antioch Coach Al Tamburrino said.

Warren is at Zion-Benton Dec. 8 in a 2:30 p.m. game. The Zee-Bees downed Libertyville 61-59 and were considered to be a threat to Warren at 3-0, 5-1. But Lake Forest knocked off Zion Saturday. Antioch's wins came over Highland Park and Lake Zurich.

Antioch, which lost to Stevenson two days earlier, started the Warren game as though the visitors would give the Blue Devils some problems. Antioch matched Warren basket-for-basket during a stretch of the first quarter.

Warren zoomed to a 12-2 lead on a basket by Serdar. But Antioch rallied. Jenny Hagen, who led the Sequoits with 16 points, cut the gap to 12-10.

But Antioch committed two turnovers and missed three shots in the waning minutes of the quarter. Warren gained a 13-10 lead on a Jasmine Strange free throw.

"They were very aggressive and quick and have some good ballhandlers," Warren Coach Bruce Campbell said of the Sequoits.

Warren regained a 10-point margin in the second quarter as Strange, who finished with 17 points, put home a missed shot. A three-pointer by Terra Reed from the top of the key and a free throw by Strange gave Warren a 32-20 halftime cushion.

Warren was off to the races as the Blue Devils got the fastbreak going in the second half. Antioch had seven turnovers for the quarter as Warren secured a 20-point lead on a Monica Brandt bucket. With the victory secured, a group of Warren backers in the crowd began singing Christmas tunes for entertainment.

"In the second half, we were able to convert on a lot of offensive rebounds," Campbell said.

Trees for troops

LAKE ZURICH — Triumph International of Lake Zurich, Century 21 Real Estate Corporation of Northern Illinois in Des Plaines, Dry Storage Corporation of Des Plaines and International Marketing Exchange in McHenry are involved in a plan to send Christmas trees and ornaments to military personnel assigned to Operation Desert Shield. "We just wanted to give the guys a decent Christmas — it's a simple as that," said Leon Gamze of Triumph International. Gamze's company, which produces artificial Christmas trees, has donated 3,000 trees to the effort. Meanwhile, Century 21 has collected ornaments for the trees. The ornaments were packed for for shipment by Dry Storage Corporation.

Seeks sprinklers

GURNEE — Gurnee Fire Chief Tim McGrath is urging two school districts to install sprinklers on a new building and an addition. The Gurnee Dist. 56 Board of Education has approved the sprinklers plan for the new school to be built at O'Plaine Rd. and North St.

Group sets dinner

NORTH CHICAGO — The Progressive Community Organization of North Chicago will be hosting its annual Christmas dinner for senior citizens on Saturday, Dec. 8. The event will be at the Marion Jones Community center from noon to 2 p.m. The meal will be free for seniors. For more information, call (708) 689-3721 or (708) 689-1977.

Bond approved

WAUCONDA — The Wauconda board of trustees has made a move to help finance the village's new police facility and has begun the process of finding the best use for the old structure. The board passed an ordinance providing for the issue of a $1 million general obligation bond as an alternative revenue source for the new facility. The board also is initiating a study to determine the best use for the old police building. Several people have expressed an interest in acquiring the use of the building, which was built in 1916 and is a village landmark.

Parent Help

WAUKEGAN---Lake County Parents Anonymous is holding weekly support meetings to prevent child abuse. P.A. meets on Friday mornings from 9 to 10:30 at 641 Lorraine Ave. The group encourages parents to "take time out" instead of "taking it out" on children. Information is available by calling Anna White Bukos, executive director, at 872-0099.

Gang arrests

ROUND LAKE BEACH—Round Lake Beach police officers joined with a Round Lake Heights police officer have arrested five juveniles who identified themselves as members of three different gangs and are implicated in a series of home burglaries in the local area. The youths were all between the ages of 13 and 16. The arrests led directly into an ongoing investigation of gang recruitment in the Round Lake area and the confiscation of seven weapons, among them: a sawed-off shotgun; two 12-gauge shotguns; a .22 rifle; a pistol; and a revolver, that the youths said had been stolen from local homeowners.

Airport plans

ROUND LAKE PARK—A public meeting was held for residents to hear plans for the public acquisition of Campbell Airport by the village of Round Lake Park. According to village officials the public response was largely favorable, however, FAA approval could be up to six months away.

Amendment ordered

GRAYSLAKE—Grayslake has been asked by the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO) to amend the language in the intergovernmental agreement relating to how villages go about withdrawing from the agency and what their financial responsibilities would be if they did so. "Basically," said village manager Mike Ellis, "It's just language clarification."

Depke is new leader of Lake County Board

by FRED BIGHAM
Lakeland Newspapers

Robert W. Depke, Warren Twp. Supervisor and newly-elected Lake county Board member from Dist. 5 was unanimously elected chairman of that body this week. It returns him to position he held from 1968-1970.

In an obvious compromise with the other front-running candidate, Andrea Moore of Libertyville, the chairmanship went to Depke while Moore settled for the second most important position, that of chairman of the Forest Preserve Dist. The position was formerly held by C. Richard Anderson of North Barrington.

In the Dec. 3 election, the new Democratic minority block of board members made an unsuccessful attempt to group around Audry Nixon of the less important position of vice chairman. But that move vailed with a 10-12 vote going to Delores Axlerod of Highland Park. The minority block vote fell into line with members Carol Calabrese of Libertyville, Suzi Schmidt of Lake Villa and Larry Leafbald of Highland Lake, joining with the Democratic members in their failing attempt.

Depke, 61, promised what he called "a more open administration than in the past." With the talent elected in the last election," Depke said that things would be different. He also pointed out that he was married on the 10th floor of the building (the same as the board room) on Dec. 9, 22 years ago.

In his call for unity among the board members Depke said; "We can't forget that when we leave this room, we are all still human beings." I reference to predictions that the long standing board fights would continue. Earlier, member Donald Strenger of Lake Forest summed up the County Board as: "a sad state of affairs when 24 people fight each other 24 hours a day."

In 1977 the board finally chose Norman Geary of Grayslake to be chairman after a 27-hour session that was famous for the bitterness that continued the following two years.

Noted for their absence were outgoing members Bruce Hansen of Lake Zurich and John Reindl of Mundelein Dist. 6.

They were defeated in the primary by Colin McRae of Mundelein and Bob Grever of Lake Zurich, along with Geary and F.T. "Mike" Graham of Libertyville, who chose not to run after defeated in their own townships for re-election as supervisors. Neither Geary of Graham attended the Dec. 3 election.

The new administration under Depke will have a different attitude from the past board toward land condemnation. Depke vowed there should be balance between growth and development. He stated that in the past their had been 'an "imbalance" Today he said, "we should negotiate, not litigate."

It is also predicted that Depke will rein in the Lake County Health Dept., which has been accused by business owners and developers as being too strict and making its own rules.

Depke's job is for two years.

Arraignment set again in Carlson murder case

Wildwood resident William Carlson will not have Jed Stone as his defense attorney.

Lake County Circuit Court Judge Henry Tonigan ruled Friday that Stone could not be Carlson's defense attorney.

Tonigan ruled Stone could not defend the 16-year-old youth accused of murdering his parents because Stone had negotiated with Blue Sexton. Tonigan said Sexton was a material witness for the state in the case.

Carlson, who is being tried as an adult, is in a juvenile home in Waukegan as he waited for an expected arraignment Wednesday afternoon before Judge Peter Trobe.

"The judge said the negotiations with Sexton represented a conflict of interest per se," Lake County Assistant States Atty. Jeff Pavletic said.

The case was originally to be heard before Judge John Goshgarian. The matter was first handled by Judge Henry Tonigan, then by Block.

Carlson is being charged with the murders of his parents in Wildwood Oct. 24. Paul, 35 and Sandra, 41, were shot and police believe Sandra waes sexually assaulted. Carlson turned himself into authorities in Quebec City, Canada following a car accident. He was later extradited to Lake County.

Stone said Sexton, from Waukegan, is an acquittance of Carlson's.

Lake County Stat's Atty. Mike Waller said prosecutors found out about Stone's possible representation of Carlson Nov. 29.

"I don't believe there is a problem," Stone said. He said there has been full discolsure with Sexton and Carlson and the way to remedy the situation was to have someone else cross examine Sexton. "I am a highly ethical attorney and loyal to the cause of Mr. Carlson," Stone said.

"It is a significant decision," Block said the day before making the ruling.

"As a people, we should explore the issue of how 16-year-olds are charged with this type of crime," Stone said.
